The home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rinehart of 49 Decey avenue became the scene of an enjoyable event last evening, when a number of self-invited guests walked in. Mr. and Mrs. Rinehart have made Newark their home for the past ten years, but are now moving to Knox county, and the water in equal quantities, and six eggs. Sift together the flour and salt; beat the egg yolks, add the milk and mix gradually to a smooth batter. In a large bowl beat the whites to a stiff dry froth, then add the batter gradually, beating constantly until entirely mixed. Place a medium sized frying pan over the fire and melt in it one-half of a tablespoonful of lard or butter. When hot pour in sufficient batter to cover the bottom of the pan, and shake until cooked in an even brown on the other side; turn over and cook the other side in the same way. Transfer to a hot plate and spread with marmalade or butter and sugar. Bake in the same way until all the batter is used.

Cold Cabinet Pudding. Soak one-half of a box of gelatine in one-half of a cupful of cold water until soft. Scald one cupful of milk over the fire, add two-thirds of a cupful of sugar and the gelatine and stir until dissolved. Strain, add one cupful of cream or rich milk and set aside until cold. When it begins to thicken add one cupful of sherry and the juice of one lemon or any kind of fruit juice or syrup (if acid a larger amount of sugar must be allowed). Rinse a mold in cold water, drain pour in a little of the cream and turn the mold until there is a thin coating over the bottom and sides. Arrange in this a pattern with capricious fruits and raisins. Fill the mold loosely with layers of fruit cut small and sliced wine and macaroons dipped into wine or fruit juice.

When it is as thick as butter pour in slowly the cream. Set on ice in a cold place until firm then turn out and serve with whipped cream.

LOST HER HAIR.

Woman Almost Baldheaded Grew Four Inches of Hair.

Here is a piece of live news from Brownstown, Minn., that ought to interest skeptical men or women readers of the Advocate who are losing their hair or have dandruff or itching scalp.

Remember that Evans' Drug Store sell Parisian Sage under a positive guarantee to stop falling hair and itching scalp and eradicate dandruff in two weeks.

Parisian Sage is most refreshing and daintily perfumed hair dressing, free from grease or stickiness. It makes dull, lifeless hair radiant and lustrous.

"Parisian Sage is the best hair cure I lost all my hair through typhoid fever; I was almost bald-headed and my scalp was as sore as could be. I tried everything, but in vain. Finally I tried Parisian Sage, and after using one bottle my hair started to grow, and has grown three or four inches inside of two months. I advise every lady who wants beautiful hair to use Parisian Sage." Miss Meta M. Kruger, Brownstown, Minn., June 8, 1910.

Parisian Sage is only 50 cents a large bottle at Evans' Drug Store and druggists everywhere. The girl with the Auburn hair is on every package.

The National Flag.
The first display of the national flag at a military post was at Fort Schuyler, on the site of the present city of Rome, N. Y. The fort was besieged early in August, 1777. The garrison was without a flag, so one was made according to the prescription of congress by cutting up sheets to form the white stripes, bits of scarlet cloth for the red stripes, and the blue ground for the stars was made from a piece of the blue cloak belonging to Captain Abraham Swartwout of Dutchess county, N. Y. This flag was unfurled over the fort on Aug. 3, 1777.

The national flag was first unfurled in battle on the banks of the Brandywine Sept. 11, 1777. The flag was first hoisted over a foreign stronghold June 28, 1778, when Captain Bartholomew of the American sloop of war Providence captured Fort Nassau, on the Bahama Islands. Captain Paul Jones was the first man to display the American flag on an American vessel. This flag was made by the women of Portsmouth, N. H., for the Ranger, which was fitted out at that port for Captain Jones. The Ranger sailed from Portsmouth on Nov. 1, 1777.

Buried Landscapes.
One of the most curious results of geological exploration is the discovery of "buried landscapes," by which is meant parts of the former face of the earth now covered under later deposits, but yet retaining so many of their original features that the geologist can identify reconstructed the scenes that would have been presented to the eye of man if he had been present among them. Sometimes buried landscapes exist in countries now densely inhabited. Investigation has shown that one lies beneath the region in England known as Charnwood forest. The rocky projections seen there are the peaks and arêtes of a buried mountain chain belonging to the old red sandstone period. Several different phases in the history of this landscape have been traced. At one time it contained salt lakes and desert expanses. In its modern form it is a pastoral region, with barren, stony tracts and rocky eminences where the ancient mountain project through the soil.—Detroit Free Press.

Whistler as a Horseman.
Boggs, a cadet cavalry officer at West Point academy, was an assistant in the riding hall. On one occasion he overheard Whistler, who thoroughly disliked to ride, objecting strenuously to the horse brought for his use. The horse, he argued, was too heavily built and much too large for a man of his size. Whistler, with much vehemence, urged the man next him to "swap." The man with whom he wished to exchange horses was of muscular build and a "pretty generous size" and his horse a lightweight animal, so it seemed to Whistler that it would be a "most fitting exchange." "Oh, don't swap! Don't you swap." Mr. Whistler cried the dragoon. "You're a war horse, sir!" "A war horse?" exclaimed Whistler. "That settles it. I certainly don't want him." "Yes, you do, sir," reiterated the man. "He's a war horse, I tell you, for he'd rather die than run."—Century.

Among Those Present.
Commenting with light irony on the pretensions of a certain nouveau riche, a contributor to Paris Figaro questions whether men of this type are any siller than those of a past generation who belonged to well known families of long descent.

"There was one of the family of Croy," this contributor writes, "who was fond of showing an old painting of Noah entering the ark and crying out:—

"Sauvez les papiers de la maison de Croy!" (Save the records of the house of Croy!)

Corrected His Error.
With the Germans the absentminded college professor is a stock source of witticisms.

One of these deeply absorbed gentlemen, sitting on a rear seat, thought he knew a person sitting in front and was about to speak to him when, the stranger by chance turning a little, the professor saw that he was mistaken.

Nevertheless, touching him on the shoulder, he remarked politely: "You will excuse me, but you are not the person I thought you were."

About Face.
Miss Prude—I just heard that Mr. Upton had an accident—in fact that he broke his—ah—er—limb, you know. Do you know how it happened, Mr. Jones?

Mr. Jones—Why—er—he was gathering apples, you see, and he fell from the—aw—er—that is, the leg of the tree.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Possible Remedy.
"The ocean doesn't seem to agree with you," consoled the ship's doctor, who had prescribed everything conceivable.

"Perhaps it would," moaned the other. "I haven't tried it yet."—Puck.

Talent Recognized.
"Jobbers don't appear to have the slightest idea of practical politics."

"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum; "his assumption of ignorance on the subject proves him a most astute politician."—Washington Star.

Eating Time.
Friend—So you dined at a way station. What did you have for dinner? Traveler—Twenty minutes.—Kansas City Journal.

Justice is the bread of nations. They are always famishing for it.—Jordan.

"OLD COLLEGE CHUMS."
Dr. C. P. King returned from Columbia last night where he had been a guest of Col. and Mrs. James Kilbourne at their beautiful home. The occasion was a memorable one, as it was the meeting of the colonel, Dr. King and Allen Nipper, old Kenyon classmates back in the early sixties. The greeting was a most enjoyable one, as they had not seen each other for almost 30 years. The evening was spent in recalling old college memories and paying a passing tribute to those of the class who had passed to the border land. Mr. Nipper is a resident of New York and had been back to Gambier to pay his respects to his old alma mater, and on his return the above greeting was had. Col. and Mrs. Kilbourne are most charming host and hostess, and the meeting of these old college classmates in their hospitable home after the lapse of so long a time will forever linger in memory.

HEART and HOME TALKS

Little Problems of The Home.

Training Children to be Self-reliant.

A girl of decided abilities who must earn her living is rather a disappointment to her friends because she is not making the brilliant success expected of her. She is filling a decidedly minor position as a clerk at a small salary, when she might be doing much higher-grade work and earning much more money. Every one knows she can do better work—except herself. And that is the stumbling block to her success.

From childhood she has been brought up by her mother to think that she can't do this and she can't do that. "Can't" has been her watchword. "Oh, you can't do that," has been the constant admonition of her mother. "Let me do it." So the girl has stepped aside, obedient to her mother's command, until this acquiescence has become a habit. Her spirit has grown timid. She is afraid to venture.

Innumerable good positions have been offered her, but she fears to try. "Oh, I can't do that," she says, again, when some opening is made or found for her by friends. She could easily do it, as her friends know, but she cannot be persuaded to venture. They are growing tired of this attitude, and their efforts to find her suitable work are growing fewer. And thus she will go through life missing the best it would give her, because she, or rather her mother, has made out of "can't" a dragon that has terrified and cowed her spirit.

It is hard for a mother as the years go by to dispossess her mind of the clinging helplessness of the baby. It is difficult for her to realize that a child grows out of this. Mother love is quick to spring to his aid, to do this for him, to prevent him from doing that. The tendency always is to shield, to protect. But this should never be carried to the extent of making him a weakling. Instead of "You can't," should be "A little man can." Then by watchfulness and necessary aid he should be prevented from doing too much, though inspired and encouraged to use to the utmost his developing faculties.

It is said that Ruskin's mother trained her son entirely on this plan. She even went so far as never to allow him to have a toy to play with, but made him find his own amusements. He became resourceful, obedient, and the most ordinary things assumed interest. He learned to rely on himself, to discover his own powers.

This discovery of one's own powers is of the greatest value. If this girl who so lacks self-confidence could once be induced to take one of these positions offered her, and find out that she is quite capable of filling it, she would be a different person. If she could once secure some faith in herself the world would take on a different face.

In business particularly it means much for a boy or girl to be self-reliant. The business man wants an employee who says, "I can," not one who hesitates and is doubtful. There must, of course, be the ability to do back of the "I can." Self-conceit must not be mistaken for self-confidence. But the child who has been wisely trained to be self-reliant will not be an egotist. Self-reliance is too big and broad and sensible for this.

HAD SALT-RHEUM FOR MANY YEARS

Doan's Ointment is the only remedy that cures salt-rheum in three days.

"For a long time I have suffered with a swelling on the back of my hand, the doctors called it salt rheum. My hands were in a terrible condition. I was ashamed to have them seen, so I did not have a pair of old gloves. I would keep my hands in my pockets in public places. I consulted several doctors and tried a number of remedies without any good results. Mr. J. I. Bolton of this city gave me two little samples of Doan's Ointment. I applied it to the swelling and in three days the swelling was entirely gone. I am now well."

A REGULAR BOLTER.

A great noise is being made by the s. o. p. machine organs about how the Paulding Times has "bolted Harmon." They will tell you that the Paulding Times is "the leading Democratic paper of the northwest."

But be neither deceived nor disturbed. If you knew the truth about the Paulding Times, you would only laugh at the claims being made by the s. o. p. machine organs.

Instead of being "the leading Democratic paper of the northwest," it is not recognized as a Democratic paper at all in Paulding county, where it is published.

The real, right and regular Democratic newspaper of Paulding is the Paulding Democrat, edited by N. R. Webster, as is well known by all of the editors of Democratic and Republican newspapers in Ohio.

Originally the paper now called the Paulding Times was published at Grover Hill, a small village in Paulding county. Some years ago, when Republican commissioners were elected in that county, the Times was induced to locate in Paulding, so that the official county printing could be taken away from Webster's paper and given to this interloper. Suit was filed in court to enjoin the publication of official advertising in the Times, and when this case was finally decided in circuit court, the court held that the Times was not a Democratic paper within the meaning of the statutes.

In every campaign the Times bolts somebody. When the injunction case was tried the only evidence offered against the Times was its own files. The court examined the various issues of the paper, and it was because of the record the Times had made for bolting Democratic candidates from year to year that the court decided it was not a Democratic paper within the meaning of the statutes.

That is all there is to the so-called bolt of the Paulding Times this year. Simply playing one of its old tricks. The Times pretends that it is "bolting Harmon" because of its loyalty to Mr. Bryan. But the Times is never loyal to anybody. Its own record shows that it has not been loyal even to itself. If Mr. Bryan himself were the candidate this year, it would probably have bolted him with as solemn pretense of virtue as its so-called bolting of Harmon.

The bolting of Harmon by the Times is only laughed at in Paulding and adjoining counties in northwestern Ohio. It should not deceive the voters in northeastern, southeastern, southwestern or any other section of Ohio. Its bolt is a political joke which the Republican managers have grasped at for political capital as a drowning man grasps at straws.

State Treasurer

Creamer's Splendid Business Methods

To the Editor of the Advocate: I have been asked by a number of Licking county voters what I think of the candidacy of David Staley Creamer for the office of state treasurer. I have no hesitancy in saying what I think. If at any time in the future the treasury of Ohio gets into the hands of men dishonest enough to use it for filling their private pockets and those of their friends, as it was habitually used for years previous to the election of 1908, the first thing the grafters will have to do will be to remove from the office every trace of the clear, complete and honest system of accounting introduced into that office by Creamer immediately after his accession. The dishonest juggling with the funds of Ohio taxpayers in the state treasury during past administrations, which Governor Harmon has so thoroughly exposed, is simply impossible under Creamer's method of conducting that office. I do not say this on the authority of others. As a citizen and taxpayer I went into that office and spent nearly half a business day there to satisfy myself as to the facts. Treasurer Creamer did not know that I was coming or who I was. I did not let him direct my investigations, but took up various branches of the treasury accounts and asked him and his assistants such questions as were necessary to find out what I wanted to know. In every case the proper books would be brought forth and the detailed accounts placed before my eyes without a moment's hesitation. I also took pains to look into certain branches of these accounts as they had been turned over to Treasurer Creamer when he came into office, and the difference is simply the difference between darkness and light, between a method of keeping accounts (or rather of not keeping them) fitted to perfection to cover up grafting, and a method expressly intended to eliminate it. With this method of accounting, for the conduct of his office, there was no reason why the state should not get such profit out of its surplus funds as they were worth in the open market, and Treasurer Creamer voluntarily started a system of competitive bidding for the use of this surplus. Under this, the banks in which it is now deposited are now paying to the people of Ohio about a thousand dollars a week more than was earned for the state from a much larger amount by former treasurers, whose lax methods of accounting made it easy for them to pretend to keep large amounts in the vaults of the treasury, while in reality they were lending it out privately and putting the interest into their own pockets. This, in a general way, is what David Staley Creamer has done for the taxpayers of Ohio by reforming the administration of the state treasury. Now what is said against him? That some years ago, while state fire marshal, he charged up to the state certain personal expenses amounting to somewhere in the neighborhood of $200. These expenses had been expressly ruled to be legal by the attorney general of Ohio. At the same time, Mr. Creamer, as fire marshal, made the best record for efficiency that had ever been made in that office, and turned back into the treasury a large portion of the money at his disposal, which none of his predecessors had done. It was his conspicuous efficiency and economy in this office that

JACOB M. FARMER

Mr. Jacob M. Farmer, the candidate of the Licking county Democracy for re-election to the office of Recorder, was born and raised on a farm some miles east of the city of Newark, in good old Hanover township. A life long Democrat, and coming from good old Democratic stock, Mr. Farmer has always been thoroughly in accord with the principles of that party and a hard and faithful worker for its success. He certainly deserves well of the party he has served so long and so faithfully.

JACOB M. FARMER.

As secretary of the Licking County Agricultural Society, Mr. Farmer has performed valuable services for the farmer and the agricultural interests of the city and county generally. He has been painstaking and untiring in his efforts to make our annual Licking county fair a success, and the splendid results that have followed—as amply witnessed in our recent successful fair in spite of the handicap of rainy weather for a couple of days—are largely due to his intelligent and tireless efforts as secretary of the board.

Mr. Farmer is fully prepared and equipped to properly perform the laborious and important duties of the office of Recorder. Careful and painstaking, prompt and accurate. Mr. Farmer is polite and accommodating, and has made a worthy and popular official. The important public interests that center in the recorder's office will continue to be safe in his hands.

COURT NEWS

William C. Hagan, by his attorney F. S. Monnett of Columbus, has commenced suit against the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company for $25,000 damages. Plaintiff says that on January 9, 1909, he was employed by the B. & O. R. Co. as a helper at its shops in Newark. He says that he was ordered by a shop foreman to enter engine 1213 for the purpose of repairing it. He says he entered the fire box with instructions to take out and pick up bolts and caps that had been thrown down through the crown sheet into the fire box by operators working in same way. Plaintiff says that when he entered the fire box he found it quite dark, and in reaching for the caps his left hand and arm were suddenly caught in a rapidly revolving machine and torn off about four inches above the wrist, shattering the forearm in such a way as to require three different amputations in attempting to save his life and limb. That he suffered excruciating pain for months and that he has never been free from periodic pain since that time; that he received a permanent nervous shock as the direct result of the injury, and that he will be crippled for life. He therefore asks judgment against the defendant in the sum of $25,000.

Hunt, administrator of the estate of Belle Hunt, deceased, against the Ohio Electric Railway Company, the defendant admits that the plaintiff is the administrator of the estate of Belle Hunt; that the defendant at the date named ran one of its cars upon its track at the point described in the petition, and that the buggy referred to in the petition was backed suddenly in front of the car and struck; that Belle Hunt was standing in the buggy and received injuries which resulted in her death; that she was the wife of Harry E. Hunt, the plaintiff in this action. The defendant denies all other allegations in the petition, and says that the negligence of Belle Hunt at the time of the accident contributed thereto and to the injuries which resulted in Mrs. Hunt's death. The foundation skirt is finished at foot with eight tucks, and the tunic has a cluster of five just below hips. #### Tender Hearted Maid.

Once upon a time there lived a child of gentle mien and manners mild; she was so tender and so kind she wept to see window blind. She feared it might give the window pain to leave it standing in the rain. Her maiden aunt, she would beg not to stone raisins, beat an egg, or from potatoes take the eyes. Oh, how this maid did agonize! And when she saw her whipping cream with horror she would sob and scream. The very thought of killing time appeared to her a dreadful crime, and, though to music she inclined, to beat the crowslip by the river with apprehension made her shiver; to cut a page or turn it down would cause a page or turn it down would cause a deprecating frown. And when she saw them shivering in the chill autumn air she knitted stockings for the trees because their limbs were bare. Her heart so oft with anguish wrung caused this poor maid to die quite young—Widow.

Uncle Sam's Dominion.

The sun never sets on American soil. The farthest Alaskan isle, acquired in the purchase of Russian America, is as far to the west of San Francisco as Eastport, Me., is east of it. With a slight deduction our territory extends sixteen degrees more than halfway round the globe and when the sun is giving his good night to our westernmost isle, on the confines of Bering sea, it is already flooding the heads and forests of Maine with its morning light and in the extreme eastern part of the state is already an hour high. When the Alaskan islander is pulling his canoe ashore for the night the woodchopper of the Pine Tree State is waking the forest with the music of his ax.—New York American.

Hindu Juggling.
The Hindu jugglers and acrobats are the most skillful in the world. One of the latest stories told of them is about a performer who went through many wonderful feats perched on the top of a single bamboo stick about fifteen feet in height. The top of the stick was tied to a girdle around his waist, and a leg rest was provided by a cushion a few feet down the pole. Perched on this slender stick he hopped and danced about in the liveliest way, accompanied by the tapping of a drum. It would be considered a skillful feat to walk about with ease on a pair of stilts fifteen feet in height, but this Hindu showed a marvellous power of equilibrium on a single stick. He did other things even more wonderful. For example, he balanced a light stick on his nose and a heavy one on his chin and then threw the heavy one into the air with his head and caught it on the end of a light one. While balancing the two sticks thus, end on end, he made one revolve in one direction and the other in the opposite direction.

"Gray" and "Grey."
What is the difference, if any, between "grey" and "gray," aside from the matter of spelling? The editor of the Oxford Dictionary some years ago made extended inquiry as to usage and found that opinions in London varied. Replies to his questions showed that in Great Britain the form grey is the more frequent in use, despite the authority of Dr. Johnson and later lexicographers, who give the preference to gray. Many correspondents said that they used the two forms with a difference of meaning or application, the distinction most generally recognized being that grey denotes a more delicate or lighter tint than gray. Others considered the difference to be that gray is a warmer color or that it has a mixture of red or brown. Another group held that grey has more of sentiment, gray more of color, which may mean that grey is a suggestion rather than a positive outline.—New York Press.

Twice Declined.
The invitation list of the governor general of Canada is made out strictly in accordance with precedent, but is not kept up to date always, the aid who has to send the invitations out—generally an Englishman or a Scotchman—not always being au courant with changes on the list. The late Sir Antoine Dorion, chief justice of Quebec, was once invited to some function, as was proper, but Lady Dorion, who was dead, was invited likewise. Sir Antoine accepted for himself, but declined for her ladyship, on the ground that she was in the cemetery. The next year, however, the same mistake was made, so the old judge wrote back to the aid-de-camp in waiting: "Sir Antoine Dorion accepts, etc., but, her ladyship being still in St. Anne's cemetery, Sir Antoine is compelled again to decline the invitation for her."

A New Game.
William is the only son of a pious minister, and though he is only three and a half years of age, his father considers it quite time he learned properly to observe grace on coming to the table. His parents have more than once endeavored to explain to him the reasons for his so doing, but the little boy regards it as no more than an amusing game. The other afternoon his older sister made another attempt to interest him in this duty. All were seated at dinner, and on the first words of the grace William's small head dropped in his hands in apparent reverence. His sister, secretly pleased with her success, stole a glance at him, when, to the consternation of the family, he sprang up, shouting gleefully: "Oh, Sis, you're 'it'! I saw you peep!"—Woman's Home Companion.

Barred Them Out.
A proprietor of a cotton mill in England who is something of a philosopher posted up on the factory gates the following notice: "No cigars or good looking men admitted." When asked for an explanation he said: "I'll tell you. The one will set a flame among among my cottons and the other among the girls. I won't admit such inflammable and dangerous things into my establishment at any risk."

The Ink That Homer Used.
Ink of various hues was used by the ancient Romans, that of a purple tint being considered the exclusive fluid for the execution of all royal writings, as it was distinctively the royal color. It is said that Homer's works were written in letters of gold on a roll 120 feet in length, formed of the intestines of serpents, but we are left in ignorance as to the method of preparing this ink.

Trying to Prove It.
An angry Father—Great Scott! What are you doing, Johnny? Why, confound it, you've got my new watch all to pieces! Johnny—Yes, dad. Teacher told us today that a good watch ought to have at least 170 parts, so I thought I'd see if yours was a good one.

"I hope madame is not superstitious?"
"No, my girl. Why?"
"Because I have just broken the large mirror in the parlor"—Paris Rire.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Lord of Burleigh

"I'm Only a Poor Man"

"ONCE upon a time in England, children," said daddy one evening, beginning his bedtime story to Evelyn and Jack, "there was a nobleman, very rich and the head of a great family. He was called the Lord of Burleigh, but he did not care very much about all his riches and his honors. The only thing for which he cared a great deal was the painting of pictures, for he was an artist, and a very good artist. If he had not been so rich he could have made much money by painting pictures and selling them."

"One summer the Lord of Burleigh made up his mind to put on old clothes and visit a certain village near his castle, where he had been told there was many a pretty scene, so he went there and set up his easel to paint pictures, forgetting everything else. But one day as he was painting a beautiful young girl, daughter of a poor man in the village, stopped to watch him paint. The Lord of Burleigh noticed her and spoke to her. Then he soon came to fall in love with her, and she also thought much of him. He did not tell her he was a lord and a very rich man. She thought he was only a poor artist, painting pictures for a living."

"After a time the picture was finished, and the artist told the girl he must go back to his own home. She said she was sorry to have him go, so he asked her to marry him and go with him. 'But I am only a poor man and can give you only a home in a small cottage,' he said."

"Why did he say that when it wasn't true, daddy?" asked Evelyn. "Because he wanted to find out whether she loved him for himself alone and not for his money and title," said daddy. "But the girl said she would marry him, and so they were married and set out for his home."

"First let us see the grand houses where the rich folk live," said the Lord of Burleigh, before we come to our own cottage. They walked through the country, admiring the beautiful castles and the splendid trees and gardens, until at last they came to one house that was larger and grander than all the others. This was the home of the Lord of Burleigh, but he did not tell that to his wife. 'Let us go in here and look around,' he said to her. At the door they were met by servants, who bowed to the lord. Inside other servants met them and bowed also. This puzzled the girl very greatly. When they came to the finest and grandest room in the house he asked her to take a seat in the best chair, and then he said to her:

"Now it is time for me to tell you that I am the Lord of Burleigh and not a poor man. And as long as you live this house shall be yours and mine, and you shall be the mistress of Burleigh."

CURES

RHEUMATISM

If It Don't You Can Get Your Money Back Says Evans' Drug Store.

Now when Evans' Drug Store, the well known drug store, makes such an offer as that, where, Oh where, is the man or woman full of Uric Acid poison, which is the same as Rheumatism who is going to turn it down?

Evans' Drug Store has sold a whole lot of Rheumatism these last few months and if it didn't do as advertised, he could not afford to make the offer.

Here is more proof: Porter Smith, Dobbin, W. Va., writes: 'I have been a great sufferer from rheumatism for about 26 years and the disease had become chronic. I began taking Rheuma with little faith in its virtues but was better from the first day. I began its use and at this time have no more pains.'—Feb. 20, 1910.

Rheuma never shirks its duty. It begins with the first dose to act on the kidneys, liver, stomach and bowels and to eliminate rheumatic poison from the whole system. 50 cents at Evans' Drug Store, or mailed by the Rheuma Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Send for free trial bottle.

You Can Interest Him

Any Man Over Fifty

You can interest any man over fifty years of age in anything that will make him feel better because while he may not as yet have any positive organic disease he no longer feels the buoyancy and vigor of twenty-five nor the freedom from aches and pains he enjoyed in earlier years, and he very naturally examines with interest any proposition looking to the improvement and preservation of his health.

He will notice among other things that the stomach of fifty is a very different one from the stomach he possessed at twenty-five. That greatest care must be exercised as to what is eaten and how much of it, and even with the best of care, there will be increasing digestive weakness with advancing years.

A proposition to perfect or improve the digestion and assimilation of food is one which interests not only every man of fifty but every woman and child of any age, because the whole secret of good health, good blood, strong nerves, is to have a stomach which will promptly and thoroughly digest wholesome food because blood, nerves, brain tissue and every other constituent of the body, is entirely the product of digestion, and no medicine or "health" food can possibly create pure blood or restore healthy nerves, when a weak stomach is replenishing the daily wear and tear of the body from a mass of fermenting half-digested food.

No the stomach itself wants help and in no round about way either it wants direct, unmistakable assistance, such as is given by one or two Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets after each meal.

These tablets cure stomach trouble because they use gives the stomach a chance to rest and recuperate, one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contains digestive elements sufficient to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food such as bread, meat, eggs, etc.

The plan of dieting is simply another name for starvation, and the use of prepared foods and new fangled breakfast foods simply makes matters worse, as any dyspeptic who has tried them knows.

As Dr. Bennett says, the only reason a man imagines that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are not universally used by everybody who is troubled in any way with poor digestion is because many people seem to think that because a medicine is advertised or is sold in drug stores or is protected by a trade mark must be a humbug, whereas as a matter of truth, any druggist who is observant knows that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have cured more people of indigestion, heartburn, heart trouble, nervous prostration and run down condition generally than all the patent medicines and doctors' prescriptions for stomach trouble combined.

SOPHOMORES SUCCESSFUL AT DENISON

Won Two Out of Three Events on Beaver Field, Freshmen Winning the Flag Rush.

Granville, Oct. 12.—The annual contest for class supremacy between the Freshman and Sophomore classes of Denison University occurred on Beaver Field on Tuesday. Ever since the beginning of the present semester class spirit has been running unusually high, and it was a sure thing that there would be a clash. The boys, however, have been a little more civilized during the last few years, and now their contests are carried out in a more humane way than heretofore. Previous to a contest there is always an understanding, with plans and lines marked out, and these are strictly adhered to.

Dr. Hunt, president of the university, had granted the boys a holiday in order to settle the question, and the fact there were to be a contest had been extensively advertised, not only in the village and among the students, but outside. The result was that one of the largest crowds that ever assembled on Beaver Field witnessed a contest of a like nature, centered on the field on Tuesday, and when the contestants marched on the field they were enthusiastically applauded.

Three events were scheduled for the contest, a flag rush, tug of war and a football game.

The first event of the day was the flag rush, which took place in the morning. The pole used last year was used Tuesday. When planted in the ground it stands about twenty feet high. The Sophomores had a large flag made of sheet boiler iron, which they had clamped around the pole and riveted.

They then assembled around the pole and bid defiance to the Freshies. The Freshmen, however, were eager for the fray, and when time was called they made a grand rush and captured every Sophomore. They then secured the flag with ropes after which they were carried off the field, and kept out of the way. While this was being done other Freshmen, armed with hammers, chisels, saws, crow-bars, hatchets, etc., vigorously attacked the flag and succeeded in taking it down from the pole, which had been liberally covered.

The greatest stunt of the day, and the one which afforded the most enjoyment to the hundreds of spectators, was the tug of war which occurred in the afternoon. The members of both classes had secured a long rope, which they threw across the Racoon creek. Fifteen Freshmen attached themselves to one end of the rope and fifteen Sophomores to the other end. The tug of war then began. The boys pulled and pulled, until it seemed as though they would pull their arms out. For a time the match was comparatively even. First one side would give way and then the other. The superior strength of the Sophomores finally prevailed, however, and the Freshmen were slowly being dragged into the river. Finally endurance could stand no more, and the Freshies were drawn with a rush into the cold waters of the river. Here they floundered and spluttered around for some time until rescued by their friends.

The football game played in the afternoon, resulted in a victory for the Sophomores by a score of 20 to 5 in favor of the Sophomores.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS WILL HAVE EXCELLENT PROGRAM

An event of more than usual interest is being planned for the Sunday school workers of Newark and Livingston county for October 25 and 26. The program will include a Men's Supper Meeting at six o'clock with an address on "A Man's Bible," by Dr. W. G. Clippinger of Otterbein; an evening session of the convention at eight o'clock which will be open to the public and two sessions on Saturday. The following notice has just been mailed to three hundred Sunday School leaders of the county, and it is quite sure that a good attendance will result.

"Dear Co-Workers:—We wish to call your attention to the Fall Convention-Institute to be held in Newark, October 25-26. This Convention-Institute is planned primarily for township officers, pastors and Sunday school superintendents. Though all Sunday school workers will be very welcome. The program will open Friday evening, the 25th, and continue through the afternoon of the 26th. Dr. W. G. Clippinger, president of Otterbein University, will be with us in all three sessions. Miss Lewis, who is soon to become state primary secretary of Indiana, will be with us Saturday. We have planned a program which we believe will be an inspiration and an education to every Sunday school worker. Plan to be present; yourself and bring a friend. Have it announced in your Sunday school next Sunday and let us try to make Saturday, the 26th, a great "truly day" in our county work.

If you desire entertainment Friday night write to Prof. J. T. Yates, Bliss College, Newark, O. You will receive programs later."

THOUGHT MEDICINE WAS "JOY" GOODS

Dr. Green's Nervura is a funny story of a little incident that happened in his Third Street store a few days ago. A man was at the soda fountain getting a dose of headache medicine, which was poured from a dark bottle, and just as he was drinking it he came three strangers. Seeing the black bottle, the familiar looking fluid, and knowing Newark was dry, the men all asked for the same thing. Mr. Collins thought it peculiar that all three would be suffering from headache, but he poured the three doses. Two of the men drank their portion and quickly as though suffering from a "cold of some hours' duration, but the third, tasting his said, "Save this taste like medicine. However, he drank it, they paid their money and went out, and it was several minutes before the druggist "mumbled" that the men thought they were getting lozenge.

The man was not a woman for her money, and it was not a man for a man to return him are just about equal.

The last is an artist. He draws on his imagination.

The Collapse of the Taft Administration—

A vigorous and informative article by Judson C. Welliver, whose "Is Roosevelt Inevitable" in "HAMPTON'S" for August, created more discussion than any article of the day. Mr. Welliver has the knack of telling precisely the things we want to know; the interesting "behind the scenes" which is unknown to the general public. This article fully explains why President Taft has failed and why there is so much talk about a third party. Everyone who is interested in the political history that is being made every day must read Mr. Welliver's exposition of the situation.

You will also enjoy Prof. Jastrow's discussion of "Malignant Animal Magnetism," and the articles and stories by Eugene Wood, Gouverneur Morris, Frederic Palmer, Edwin Balmer, William MacHarg, Hugh Johnson and others in

Answer This Question

When shown positive and reliable proof that a certain remedy had cured numerous cases of female ills, wouldn't any sensible woman conclude that the same remedy would also benefit her if suffering with the same trouble?

Here are two letters which prove the efficiency of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Fitchville, Ohio.—"My daughter was all run down, suffered from pains in her side, head and limbs, and could walk but a short distance at a time. She came very near having nervous prostration, had begun to cough a good deal, and seemed melancholy by spells. She tried two doctors but got little help. Since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, Blood Purifier and Liver Pills she has improved so much that she feels and looks like another girl."—Mrs. C. Cole, Fitchville, Ohio.

Irassburg, Vermont.—"I feel it my duty to say a few words in praise of your medicine. When I began taking it I had been very sick with kidney and bladder troubles and nervous prostration. I am now taking the sixth bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and find myself greatly improved. My friends who call to see me have noticed a great change."—Mrs. A. H. Sanborn, Irassburg, Vermont.

We will pay a handsome reward to any person who will prove to us that these letters are not genuine and truthful—or that either of these women were paid in any way for their testimonials, or that the letters are published without their permission, or that the original letter from each did not come to us entirely unsolicited.

What more proof can any one ask?

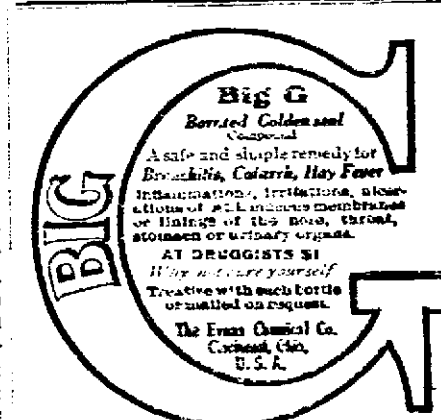

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.
